

BRYAN SEES WILSON; EVADES QUESTIONER

Supposed New Secretary of State Tells Auditors to Wait for Official Appointment.

"You won't have to wait long now to know definitely," said William J. Bryan this morning relative to his being Secretary of State. Mr. Bryan's eye twinkled when he said this and his expansive smile was in evidence. None of his auditors had any doubt as to what he meant.

Mr. Bryan was up early this morning at the New Willard and his first preparation for the Secretaryship of State was to eat a robust breakfast. A few minutes later and he posed for a picture in company with Gov. John H. Moorehead of Nebraska and Col. Herbert Daniel of Omaha, military aide to the Nebraska executive.

Mr. Bryan then went to the Shoreham, walking up Fourteenth street to H and then to Fifteenth. Nearly every man and woman he passed recognized the famous Nebraskan.

Confers With Wilson.

At the Shoreham Mr. Bryan chatted a few minutes with Mr. Wilson and with Mr. Marshall. His calls on the President and Vice President were made separately, but the three were soon in conference together. The conference did not last but a few minutes.

After the visit to the Shoreham Mr. Bryan returned to the Willard, and at a little after 10 o'clock started for the Capitol.

Returning from witnessing the inaugural of both the President and Vice President, Mr. Bryan was to go to the White House for luncheon. After that he was to sit in the Court of Honor and watch the parade.

"Just where will you sit?" Mr. Bryan was asked.

Bryan Evades Question.

Mr. Bryan's face grew inscrutable for a minute. Then he smiled at his questioner, and made reply to the effect that no one would have to wait very long to be absolutely certain about who fills the Secretaryship of State.

Mrs. Bryan and her husband have a suite on the second floor of the Willard, Governor Moorehead's rooms are near by.

Mr. Bryan has already sat in the Secretary of State's chair. At the White House late yesterday afternoon he called upon President Taft, and Mr. Taft at the end of the call said: "Here's something I want to show you," and he led Bryan into the Cabinet room.

Mr. Bryan dropped into the chair which has supported Philander Chase Knox the last four years. But he made no comment then or later on as to how it felt.

HYATTSVILLE SENDS MILITIA TO PARADE

Company F, With More Than Sixty Men, Will March in Inaugural Pageant.

HYATTSVILLE, March 4.—Company F, First Maryland Infantry, of the State National Guard, under command of Capt. O. A. Greaser, left here this morning on a special train of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad and will join the balance of the regiment in Washington at the New York avenue freight yards.

The company numbers more than sixty men. The civic organizations from this section will be the Seat Pleasant Democratic Club and the Democratic Club of Riverdale. A large number of the Hyattsville Democrats will join either one or the other of these organizations.

The City and Suburban Electric railway is running a three-minute schedule from Riverdale, and an eight-minute schedule from Berwyn.

The Rev. Mr. Skellinger, of New Jersey, began last Sunday in the First Presbyterian Church, a series of sermons, "Songs in the Dark," and stereopticon sermons. They will continue through the month of March, and those for the next three Sundays will be March 5, "The Baptism and Battles of Jesus," March 16, "The Mighty Miracles of Jesus," March 23, "The Traitor, Trial, and Resurrection." The church has engaged Mr. Skellinger to fill the vacant pulpit during the present month, and there is a possibility of his being invited to take the charge permanently.

Kent, one of the banner Democratic districts in this county, is alive with aspirants for political honors. Among the candidates from this district is Jeremiah J. Crowley, who represented this county in the house of delegates of the State legislature at the 1910 session. This time Mr. Crowley has entered the field for the nomination as register of wills, making the fight for that office a four-cornered affair.

Messrs. George P. Hickey, V. A. Miller, and Linden Briscoe having already announced their intention of fighting for the nomination, Edward Marzuder, of Kent, has announced himself as a candidate for the nomination for sheriff.

Jackson A. Sult, one of the best and most favorably known Democrats in the county is a candidate for the nomination for county commissioner. Bernard H. Walker, one of the younger members of the Democratic party of the county is anxious to secure the nomination as road director. Just over the line in Bladensburg district is another candidate for the nomination for sheriff in the person of John Finn. Mr. Finn, who lives at Ardwick, is an old time worker in the Democratic party, and says he is going to make a strong fight to secure the nomination.

PEACOCK ALLEY IS FILLED WITH GUESTS

Hotels Large and Small Crowded to Capacity by Visitors and Marching Clubs.

Pennsylvania avenue during the suffrage parade was not more crowded than was Peacock alley, in the New Willard last evening. This and other hotels were jammed to standing capacity by the tremendous throngs of visitors all of whom were on dress parade. The New Willard, where the Prince-

FRACTURE OF SKULL RESULTS IN DEATH

Irving Burrows Is Held by Police in Connection With Fatal Altercation.

Richard Saylor, forty years old, died shortly before 1 p. m. yesterday in Emergency Hospital from a fractured skull, said by the police to have been the result of an altercation at Center Market Saturday night with Irving C. Burrows, of 336 Indiana avenue. Saylor, who recently came to Washington from Philadelphia, is said by the police to have been staying at the Indiana avenue address.

Burrows is employed at Center Market. Saylor called to see him at his place of business and the police were told the men had a misunderstanding about a key to the house. Blows were exchanged and Saylor was knocked to the floor. He was taken to Emergency Hospital.

Washingtonian Drowned.

Terry L. Bricker, of Washington, hospital apprentice, was drowned at Guantanamo, Cuba, recently, according to a cablegram received by the Navy Department. He was the son of Abraham Bricker, of 515 N street northwest.

MADAME FATIMA IS BROUGHT TO EARTH

Rude Policeman Interrupts Communication With Stars on Pennsylvania Ave.

When "Mme. Fatima Hajos, greatest seer of the Western Hemisphere, reader of the stars and intimate acquaintance of the future, who can tell you who your future husband or wife is to be," (whether you have one already or not) was arraigned in the Police Court yesterday after the police had cut her psychic wires on a charge of vagrancy, she predicted direly for mere men—especially mere policemen. "Ere another quartette of years fade into the past," rooth the person who says also with a season past to the land of occiditum. In her most mystic vein, "you men will find women voting in nearly every State in the Union as the result of today's parade." "At that rate," ejaculated Judge Pugh, "you'll be a power. If you promise to cease further communication with the land of mystery and do a little material good for the cause of suffrage—say, for instance, march in that parade—you may go without fine." "Madame Fatima Hajos," etc., after explaining to the court how her psychic waves were interrupted while she was conversing with the "upright world" on Pennsylvania avenue by "rude policeman" promised to march in the parade and left the court room.

The Opinion of Others Is Always of Inestimable Value

What The Washington Post Says Of MASSACHUSETTS AVENUE HEIGHTS

"To those who are lending aid to the movement to make Washington, in the truest sense, 'The City Beautiful' among the greatest capitals of the world, no recent real estate promotion has given greater satisfaction than the development of Massachusetts Avenue Heights."

The Washington Post.

We Want YOU to See

Massachusetts Avenue Heights

"The Best Buy in Washington"

MASSACHUSETTS AVENUE HEIGHTS is an UNUSUAL real estate development. It has no competitor. It never can have. The reason is found in the fact that no other subdivision can ever be developed having the same advantages of proximity to the city and wonderful natural beauty.

It is in the direct line of Washington's finest residential development, and but a step beyond Sheridan Circle, the social center of America. The advance in values at Sheridan Circle has been proportionately greater than at any other point in the city's residential section.

History will repeat itself at Observatory Circle, the axis on which Massachusetts Avenue Heights swings. Here the same type of mansions will be found as now adorn Sheridan Circle. Plans for one such residence have been drawn and others will soon follow.

The Famed "Villa Section."

North of Massachusetts Avenue and adjoining Rock Creek Park is the famed "Villa Section," destined, we believe, to be the most talked-of residential park in the world. Here the contour of the land has been followed and Nature's beauty preserved. Through the heart of this tract a parkway has been laid out and dedicated to the District. This parkway forms a spur of Rock Creek Park, which skirts the eastern end of the Heights. The roadways wind around the villa sites in graceful curves and on easy grades. The terraces have been planted with wild honeysuckle. The roadways are macadamized. Sidewalks, gutters, sewer and water mains laid. All of these improvements at the expense of the trustees. The sites in this section vary from 1-4 acre to 9 acres in size.

Moderate Priced Lots.

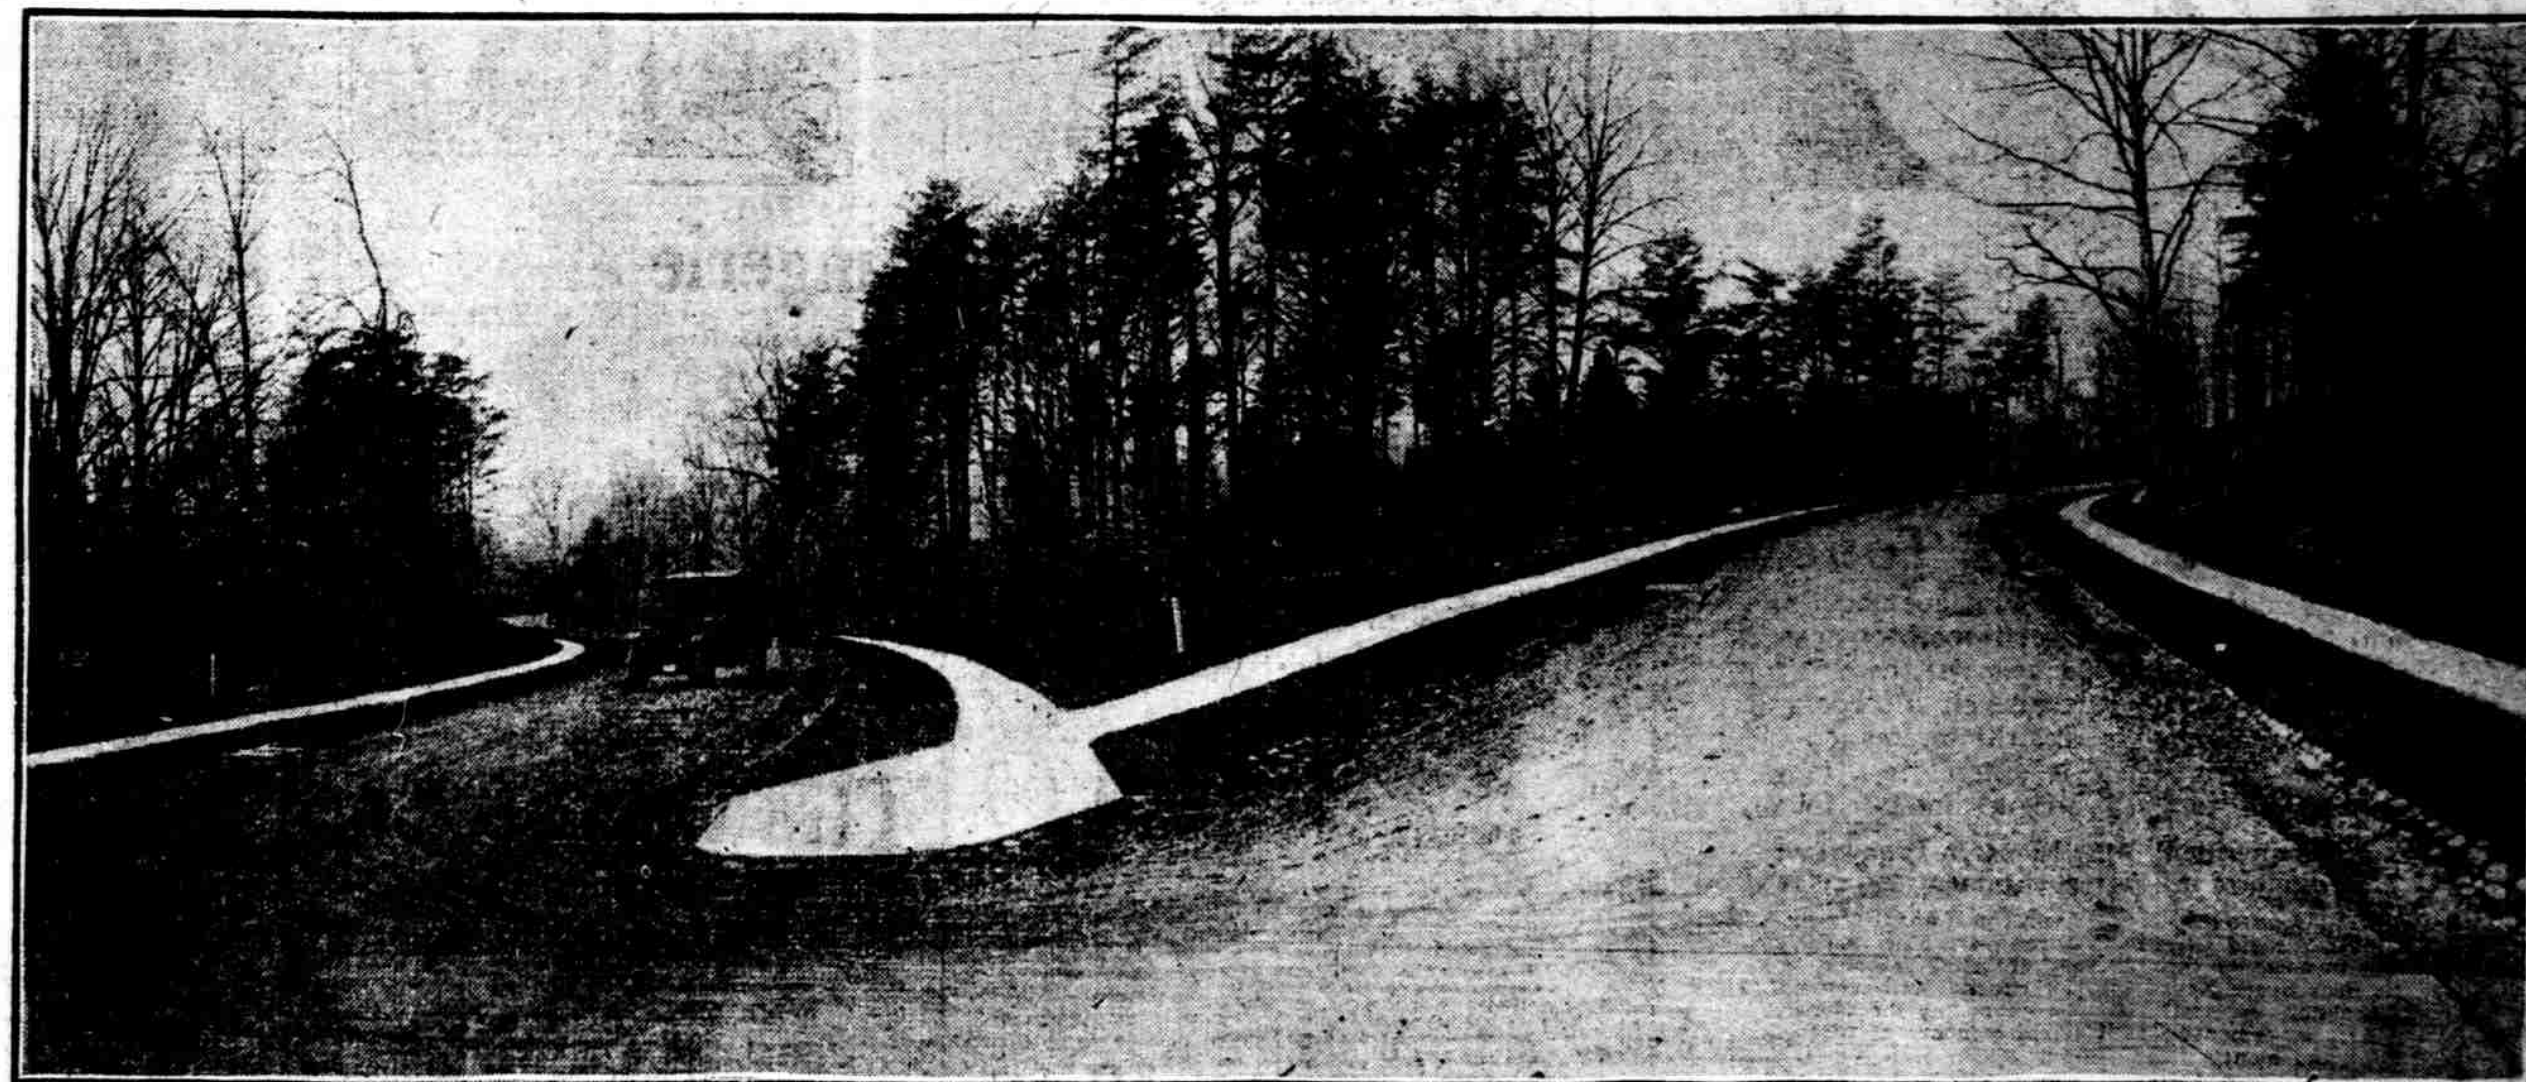

Close to this Villa Section and also to Observatory Circle you may buy moderate-priced 50-foot lots. They sit on the grounds of the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral, the extensive estates of Senator Francis G. Newlands and the late Senator George S. Nixon and others equally prominent. These lots afford an opportunity to secure at a low cost a home site close to the city's finest residential section.

The prices at which these lots are sold are so low and terms so reasonable in comparison to those asked for adjacent property that there can be no question as to the investment possibilities. The amount of money needed to take advantage of this opportunity is small. Let us show you this property. A phone call—Main 6830—will bring one of our representatives.
